CUAD OBREGON, Sonora, Mexico, Feb. 21.—The name of the Yaqui Valley city is Ciudad Obregon, honoring the memory of Obregon, former Mexican President, whose widow now lives here. But all the natives call the city by its old name, Cajeme, and that name will last. It is that of a Yaqui chief, type of the Indian of high intelligence and powerful will. Cajeme, having arranged to marry a beautiful Indian girl of the Yaqui people, went north on a short trip. While he was gone an army officer stole the girl's affections and stole her.

Cajeme on his return did what was necessary, according to the Yaqui code. He hunted up the officer and killed him, found the girl and killed her, fought as long as he could, then he hanged him. All kinds of nationalities live in this valley, United States Americans, Germans, Spanish, and they all like Cajeme.

Millions that will see this are interested in "boom towns." This is a real one. Twelve years ago this spot held only a railroad siding and one small building. It has 12,000 inhabitants now, and 120,000 acres under intensive cultivation are irrigated from the Yaqui river. Storage for enough water to irrigate 900,000 acres more could be built and the government doubtless will do it.

There may be somewhere on earth a farming country as good as this, but there is none like it. They have the rice crop in December, plant wheat on the same land in January, and harvest that in June. They ship hundreds of carloads of tomatoes and thousands of tons of green peas at a season when the United States does not have either. You drive through 8000 acres of green peas.

The full grown, round peas are shipped North because commercial economy demands it. Of the delicate, small green peas 30 tons a week are packed in the Yaqui fruit Co. packing shed. Two hundred tons a week of the fields are thrown away to pig, horses, cows and chickens. You will see a contented burro standing in front of a small barrel of fresh peas.

The rice fields and all other crops are worked by machinery and there is some mechanization of the old rice field days, drained by slaves. The peas are picked by hand, a thousand men and women picking one great field this morning.

Arthur Hoffmann and E. J. Saal run the rice mill for Robert Brothers & Company, San Francisco. These thousands of polished rice are piled up in bags in the warehouse. Seventeen thousand tons have been shipped abroad. Europe gets all of this high grade, long grain rice, in obedience to public demand, which values appearance.

The rice is hulled, the hulls burned in the furnace to produce power, the inner hull is ground off, then the rice is polished pure white and the husk of its vitamine value has been destroyed. One hundred pounds of high-grade rice costs $2.75. Half a pound of rice will feed a man for a day.

The Richardson brothers, of whom only one, William E. Richardson, lives here, began the development of this Yaqui Valley delta 40 years ago. Mr. Richardson, with his partner, H. A. Sibbet, continue it. John Hays Hammond and the late Harry Payne Whitney operated the irrigation project, and the Mexican government bought it for $9,000,000, American money, and very intelligently controls the waters.

It is not possible to exaggerate the agricultural value of this farmers' paradise valley. An Arab visitor looked upon the stone whence Mohammed mounted to heaven, his white mare, and then the Arab put out both his eyes, saying he could never see anything so worthwhile and did not want to forget what he had seen. The farmer smiled at the same, having seen this valley.

Prof. Macley, of the University of California, who planted a grapefruit orchard here in 1912, says that the grapefruit, bright yellow, are literally the head of a man wearing a hat number six and oval-hat.

Francisco Elias, governor of Sonora, in which the delta is located, gave land to the Mayo Indians, saying "they deserve it" and let them manage the "reclaim" irrigation. They repaid the loan from their rice crop in two years. Fifty thousand acres here are planted in wheat. It is said to be the best in the state, and the land is so good that it is said to be worth $20 a acre when you pay for it in wheat.

A farmer could talk and write forever about this land but the man brings are more interesting than the land. First you see

RESCUED ON RIVER TRAWLER

Coast Guard in Desperate Fight Off Highland Light Saves the Junsal

Coast Guards saved 11 men aboard the Boston trawler Junsal today after a furious all night battle with the sea off Highland Light, Cape Cod.

Coast Guards at the Highland Light station rescued the Junsal drifting steadily toward shore despite warning flares. "Breches buoy" apparatus was then rigged for use if the trawler struck on the sandbar, while 11 men of the Wood station put out in a surfboat.

Meanwhile radio messages to the Boston base were relayed to the Dix, on patrol of Massachusetts Bay, and after a fast trip the crew got a line aboard the trawler.

The crew of the surfboat had fought their way to the side of the hulls and had to be called on to disentangle the anchor cables of the trawler and the Dix.

The engine of the Junsal was disabled last night and it was dragging its anchor before a high wind when rescue operations began.

Police Reserves Called as Mill Invaders Halt Work by Slashing Shaft Belts

By Staff Correspondent.

Lawrence, Feb. 21.—Reporting to "strong arm" methods, 200 Lawrence textile strikers drove approximately 9600 workers of the Wood and Washington mills of the American Woolen Co. to the street today.

Police reserves gathered in front of the mill, forced their entrance, and split into groups. Each department was systematically cleared of workers.

One woman collapsed in the Washington mill and was carried out by the police.

The millers' strikers rushed through the room, slashing the shaft belts of the spinning room, and the foreman forced to flee.

Police cleared streets.

The strike in the American Woolen mills are as follows, according to strike leaders:

Installation of efficiency "clockers" by the company.

A plan to make two employees tend also coming machinery for overtime work.

After the first strikers walked out two days ago the company announced that the plan to allot time to the strikers would be abandoned, but union organizers said other demands must be met.

VACATIONS OFFERED TO POLICEMEN WHO KILL

Commissioner Hultman is a general order today promised a substantial vacation and special commendation to any member of the police department who captures one or more of a gang of expert safe-robbers now at large in this city.

The same promise is made to any policeman who obtains information leading to arrest and conviction.

Police are instructed to be especially watchful over the present holiday season and all week-ends. The division commander are ordered to request businessmen to grant them 10 days in deposit Saturday collections as late as possible.

Special watch must be kept on the offices and laundries where the safe-robbers have been centering their operations.

The gang is composed of professional thieves, under strict discipline to blow open the strong boxes and all efforts to track the members thus far have been unsuccessful.

The commissioner's order was sent out by Capt. Crowley to be read at all roll-calls.

RELEASE IS TAKEN TO CUSTODY

Girl Goes With Police as They Start Out on Hunt for Eighth Suspect

Maurice Mack, 27, of Chestnut st., Revere, with a radio aboard in Dorchester, was arrested today by Special Officers Hart and Douglas, the seventh man to be taken into custody in connection with the probe of a vice net encompassing young girls. The pleaded not guilty to two counts of a statutory offense and was released under $500 bail for a hearing, February 23. He was accompanied to court by Atty. Herbert J. Callahan. Request of police that he be set at $2500 was refused.

Police say his alleged offenses occurred last month in an apartment house on Massachusetts ave., near Shawmut ave., South End. Shortly after his arrest, a raiding party from police headquarters, led by a Dorchester high school girl, started after the eighth man. Inspectors Douglas and Hart and a social worker accompanied the girl, one of the three who have figured in the probe.

Israel Shale of Joliet, Ill., Madison, surrendered on a status quo in Brighton court today. Hearing was set for Feb. 26. Bill of $2500 filed yesterday by the police, was allowed to stand.

MAN HUNTED IN LYNN
Ramifications of the vice ring have extended to Chelsea and Lynn, police believe. Further search in Lynn lodging houses is being made by Nathan and other officers, and it is hoped to find the same man and girl who were sought in Chelsea.

FOUND IN NEW YORK
This girl was last seen by her mother in an automobile near her home last fall, when she was not heard of again until she was found by the New York Missing Persons Bureau, and then from an appendicitis operation in a Manhattan hospital.

Her mother received a telegram last night saying that an apartment today with Miss Jessie Lambert, her aunt, and her mother was also informed that the Boston police were questioning the girl. The investigation for more arrests and further arrests are due to the probe which will continue until the last 24 hours.

PERSONS DISOWN GIRL

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Mary F. Henderson's recent effort to give the United States a home for the Vice-President today resulted in an effort by her adopted granddaughter, Mrs. Beatrice Henderson White, to disown her.

Mrs. White went to court in an effort to prevent Mrs. Henderson, widow of the late John B. Henderson, senator from Missouri, from giving the mansion to the government.

It then became known that Mrs. White, who had been regarded as the daughter of the late John B. Henderson, Jr., was a founding and today Mrs. Henderson attacked the validity of her adoption of the young woman.

Truth About Chicago Wins Praise for Mr. Hearst

Chicago, Feb. 21 (UPI)—The City Council last night voted thanks to the Association of Commerce for William Randolph Hearst for publishing in all of his newspapers statistics showing that 97 cities in the United States, with a population of more than 100,000, have more crime than Chicago.

"This was done through passage of a resolution presented by Alderman Oscar F. Nelson, which declared: 'The action of the Hon. William Randolph Hearst in arranging to have this article published in all of his newspapers throughout the nation, will have the result of proclaiming to the world the truth about Chicago and most, of necessity, result in great credit to all citizens of the city of Chicago.'"

MAJOR THANKS HEARST
The Council acted after Mayor Thompson submitted the following message: 'I transmitted to your honorable body, under date of February 9, 1931, a clipping from the Chicago Evening American, dated February 9, 1931, in which it was stated that 97 cities of the United States, with a population of more than 100,000, have more crime than the city of Chicago, and that the foregoing fact was revealed from an extensive tabulation of known offenses proved by Frederick Kee, head of the Municipal Reference Bureau.'

"The table comprised reports from 11 cities and was based on figures compiled by the Bureau of Investigation of the United States Department of Justice, and published on Pages 6 and 7 of the federal pamphlet entitled 'Form Crime Reports,' dated September, 1929."

Under date of February 9, 1931, I received the following letter from the Hon. William Randolph Hearst:
"Dear Mr. Hearst: I am arranging to have Chicago articles published in all of my papers throughout the nation so that it will get the widest possible publicity."

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE
"It must be apparent to every citizen of your honorable body, Mr. Hearst in directing to have this article published in all of his newspapers throughout the nation, will have the result of proclaiming to the world the truth about Chicago and most, of necessity, result in great credit to all citizens of the city of Chicago."

"I am also transmitting to your honorable body the official organ of the Association of Commerce under date of February 14, 1931, which contains, on pages 18 and 19, a chart in which each of the 97 cities are geographically arranged."

Sydney, N. Y., Feb. 21 (AP)—Physicians attending Mrs. Nellie Melba, who is seriously ill in a hospital here, said tonight her condition had grown suddenly worse and was considered "very grave."

WILLIAM HALE THOMPSON, Mayor
The President began work on his veto message today. The Senate disposed of the conference reports on the $100,000,000 post office and treasury appropriation bill before March 4. The House passed the bill on March 4.

Blanks for New Veterans' Loan Ready for Use

Application blanks for veterans wishing to borrow on adjusted compensation certificates will be sent out immediately to all posts of Veterans' organizations and to Red Cross chapters and other local centers. It was announced today at the Boston regional office of the Veterans' Bureau.

Anticipating passage of the President's veto of the bill which allows borrowing up to 50 per cent of the face value, everything is being put in readiness by the regional director, Col. William B. Blake, so that on the day after passage of the bill, $250,000 will be disbursed in the first rush of applications, and between $250,000 and $300,000 in all under the new law.

He figures that 37,000 veterans will apply the first year, about 15,000 the second month, with a gradual falling off thereafter. Up to the present time loans under the new law have been made totaling $10,000,000.

CHECK ASKED ON RAIL HOLDING COMPANIES

Bill is Introduced in the House to Make Them Subject to Federal Jurisdiction

Washington, Feb. 21—Chairman Parker of the House Interstate Commerce committee today introduced a bill to place railroad holding companies under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce commission. The measure is designed to carry out the principal recommendation in the report of the committee on its investigation into railroad ownership.

Parker expects quick committee approval and plans to seek final legislative action this session. Revealing a "strategic struggle" for control of the railroads, the report recommended that Congress place railroad-holding companies under control of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Railroad security holdings of the Baker, Vanderbilt, Harriman, Falmouth, Whitely, Wilemski and Currier families, also of Arthur Currier James, railroad titan of the West, were laid bare.

ON $100,000 SALARY.
The report disclosed that the American Railroad Association, headed by Dr. Walter M. W. Spaw, special counsel, recommended that Congress discontinue the plan for four systems in the East to extend cross eastern systems to the Missouri river gateway.

TWO DEVELOPMENTS.
Parker said: "There are two outstanding recent developments which appear to have an unending effect on the railroads in the West. These are, first, the acquisition of the National Textile Workers' Union and second, the acquisition of the Van Swearingen interests; second, the extension of cross eastern systems to the Missouri river gateway."

GENERAL STRIKE FEARED
Unless demands being formulated by the strike committee of the National Textile Workers' Union are met today, a general strike in the American company's three mills will be called for Tuesday, union officials announced.

STRIKERS RUSH LAWRENCE MILL
Combers, and time and a half for overtime work. Ernest A. Johnson, agent for the Washington Mill, denied that any demands had been granted.

Clearing the Wood mill was not planned. Miss Berkman said: "But when the strikers reached the mill, sentiment was so strong in favor of the strike that the workers left their posts."

Police rushed from headquarters and other parts of the city, made no arrests, but confined their activities to keeping the crowds moving.

GATHERINGS DISPERSED
Groups of strikers and workers who attempted to hold meetings in the streets were dispersed by police. Cries of derision greeted the efforts of the officers to break up the groups.

Police rushed to scene
A third mill owned by the company, the Ayer mill, opposed the strikers' demands.

Romance Gone

Prohibition Director Sees No Possibility of Strict Dry Law Enforcement

Washington, Feb. 21 (INS)—Two packing cases, bulging with the evidence, upon which the Wickersham report based its amazing conclusions on prohibition, were in the hands of the Senate today.

IN FAVOR OF BEER
The evidence, or that part of it which the commission dared or dared to make public, proved paradoxical and conflicting as the report of the commission itself. It ranged all the way from testimony that prohibition is a grand success to testimony that it is an abject failure, and it was gleaned from persons of many walks of life.

Of all the thousands and hundreds of words, probably the most important were those of Col. Ames W. Woodcock, prohibition enforcement director in the administration.

Col. Woodcock candidly admitted that the brewing and distilling industry was making violations of the prohibition law, but he saw no way of overcoming it. In fact, he gave some hewing a sort of "left-right" in the whole thing. It was because he saw no way of adequately enforcing the law against "home option" was the phrase used by the prohibition director in describing the policy he believed was calculated to apply to the situation. Under "home option" those who want beer and wine may make them, and those who don't want them don't have to have them.

CAN'T BE ENFORCED.
The law prohibiting all forms of liquor can no more be enforced against the home-owner or home-brewer than it can against the gambler. Woodcock suggested that the law against gambling be enforced to prohibit a game of "home option" in the home. He said that the whole thing might be swept away on a wave of public indignation.

Philadelphia, Feb. 21 (US)—Albert Kelley "Young Lochinor" Darling was released from county jail at Norristown after he had spent a night brooding on the good old days when knights were bold and got away with it.

Darling, 19-year-old aviator and son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Darling, wealthy social registries of New York, was arrested here after he attempted to kidnap Elizabeth P. Converse, also of a wealthy and socially prominent family.

Young Darling, it is said, called at the Converse home with a revolver and a pair of handcuffs and attempted to drag Elizabeth from the house. Her mother, Mrs. Donald T. Converse, promptly had Darling arrested. Miss Converse is a student at Bryn Mawr and a former gold medal student at Culver Military Academy.

'GUN GIRL' LAST AITO RIDE TO DEATHHOUSE

CALLS GOOD-BY TO PRISONER ON LEAVING

Rides in Same Machine With Dague, Condemned Sweetheart; Nerve Still Strong

New Castle, Pa., Feb. 21—Irene Schroeder began her last automobile ride at exactly 11:38 a. m. today.

With Glenn Dague, her sweetheart, Pennsylvania's "gun girl," was whisked from the Lawrence County jail this morning, placed in a high-powered motor car and pointed toward her rendezvous with the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary. They had occupied cells in the jail here for a year—ever since their conviction for the murder of Corp. Brady Paul.

Attired in black, Irene, looking like a woman prisoner, bracing herself on the bars inside the cell, called out a shrill:

"Good-bye Irene—good-bye." Irene turned at the shrill of a moment as she turned and called back:

"Good-bye Angelina. Be good." Dague was shocked to the sheriff. The leave taking was very brief.

RIDE IN SAME AUTO Both prisoners were herded into the spacious rear seat of the machine. As a crowd of morbidly curious that had thronged about the jail and grown hour by hour surged forward, the chauffeur stepped on the accelerator and the car shot away.

Another car trailed the machine as it swept around the corner. In the second car were County Detective H. M. Lee, Constable Thomas Oliver, and Mrs. Mary Conito and a nurse, Miss Cunningham.

Loyal to the last, old "Joe" Crawford immediately left for Bellefonte in company with Irene's brother, John.

"I want to be with my baby as long as I can," Crawford said. Irene waved her good-bye to him at Rockview Penitentiary if authorities permit him to do so.

New Appeal Made to Save the "Gun Girl" From Chair Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 21 (INB)—Judith P. Benjamin, New York city, who was chairman of the Ruth Borer clemency committee, appealed to Governor Clifford Pine for an effort to save Irene Schroeder from the electric chair on Monday.

Benjamin made his appeal in the form of a letter to the governor.

Two of the crew, all injured, manned a line which Cove had fastened about his body, and dragged both Dover and Cove aboard after the rescuer had bailed his way to the side of the drowning man.

Ernest Ingleson, William Rankin and John Rice were also seriously bruised. The captain is Chris Gibbs and the vessel brought in a large cargo of hauled.

Mrs. Appell, Writer, Found Dead in Home San Diego, Cal., Feb. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Graves Appell, former editor of a magazine, and widow of Nathan Appell, founder of a theater club, was found dead on the floor of her bedroom here yesterday. She had last been seen alive Sunday, neighbors told police. An autopsy was held, but authorities said a natural death was indicated.

Even Ford's Millions Can't Buy Fate of Fred the Great Potsdam, Germany, Feb. 21 (AP)—"Even Henry Ford, with all his riches, can't acquire Fredrick the Great's fate," Prince Friedrich Leopold, Jr., said today in discussing the withdrawal of the flute from an auction sale of family heirlooms.

"Mr. Ford made a fabulous offer, the size of which I decline to divulge. But so long as my father and I live the flute won't be sold. Our decision to withdraw it from the auction sale stands."

Mr. Ford's offer for the flute was 250,000 marks ($62,500). The Metropolitan Opera Company was said to have offered $20,000. An American newspaper publisher, believed to be William Randolph Hearst, and an American banker also made offers.

Negro's Suit to Be Tried After 6 Years Worcester, Feb. 21—Trial of the 5500 suit of J. Thomas Hewitt, Jr., Negro, of Richmond, Va., against the trustees of Worcester Academy, which was filed six years ago, will begin here Tuesday in Superior Court.

Hewitt will be represented by prominent Boston attorneys. The case will come before Judge Almon R. Wood for a jury trial. The plaintiff alleges he enrolled as a student in 1923, was assigned a room by mail and paid more than $500 toward his first year's expenses, but when he reported for school in September he was refused admittance because of his race and color. The money was returned.

A musical program will be provided by organists drawn from the public schools of Detroit.

'DE ROY' JAIL AUTHOR, FREED

Worcester, Feb. 21—(AP)—Lute, 38, of Revere, had not gone on a transatlantic "worthless check spree" five years ago, the world might never have heard of the short story writer known as "M. Delroy."

Today, for the first time in five years, Lute is out of prison, having been released by the District Court here on a charge of passing a worthless check during his stay from Revere to San Francisco. The case was filed after Lute told the court a story almost paralleling that of "O. Henry."

Lute said he was jailed in San Francisco after passing a total of $100 in worthless checks. He had four bullet wounds. He served time also in the Minnesota state prison at Deer Island, at East Cambridge and at Fitchburg, he told the court.

During his incarceration, Lute said he had mastered the art of writing short stories, which were published under the pen name of "M. Delroy," and from the sale of his work had made restitution of every dollar he had drawn on the public schools of Worcester.

Lute was bitter over the loss of a history of Deer Island which he had written after making exhaustive research while in that institution, and which he declared the Fitchburg jail authorities had forced him to tear up before leaving there yesterday.

The court was so impressed by his story that his case was filed and Lute left immediately for New York where a position with a publishing house awaits him.

Bride Wins

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—One man was killed and two wounded today in the renewal of an East Side gang war.

The battle took place in the Hotel Hamilton House in East 8th St. Albert Wagner was slain. His brother, Abe, and Harry Brown, a Brooklyn youth with Manhattan "business interests" were wounded. John (Abe) Maza, another Brooklynite, was killed by gunmen last night in front of a cafeteria on the lower East Side. He had been shooting at his adversary.

Police first learned of the fighting in the hotel when Brown got out of a taxicab at Bellevue Hospital and walked to the receiving ward where he was slain. He had four bullet wounds.

While an interest cleaned the wounds in his back, jaw, right arm and left shoulder, he demanded that Rudinsky, Rudinsky he called a man he knew. To Rudinsky he said the Wagner had disappeared after the gunplay.

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—One man was killed and two wounded today in the renewal of an East Side gang war.

The battle took place in the Hotel Hamilton House in East 8th St. Albert Wagner was slain. His brother, Abe, and Harry Brown, a Brooklyn youth with Manhattan "business interests" were wounded. John (Abe) Maza, another Brooklynite, was killed by gunmen last night in front of a cafeteria on the lower East Side. He had been shooting at his adversary.

Police first learned of the fighting in the hotel when Brown got out of a taxicab at Bellevue Hospital and walked to the receiving ward where he was slain. He had four bullet wounds.

While an interest cleaned the wounds in his back, jaw, right arm and left shoulder, he demanded that Rudinsky, Rudinsky he called a man he knew. To Rudinsky he said the Wagner had disappeared after the gunplay.

Lute was bitter over the loss of a history of Deer Island which he had written after making exhaustive research while in that institution, and which he declared the Fitchburg jail authorities had forced him to tear up before leaving there yesterday.

The court was so impressed by his story that his case was filed and Lute left immediately for New York where a position with a publishing house awaits him.

Don't neglect a cold

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Mucsterole with the first application. Should be more effective and once every hour for five hours. This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other highly potent ingredients brings relief naturally. Mucsterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—it goes just a little deeper and stimulates blood circulation, helps to clear out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses. Keep Mucsterole handy in jar and tube. To Mothers—Mucsterole is also made in a form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Mucsterole.

ANSWERING SOME INQUIRING FRIENDS

HIGHGO! WHAT A busy week-end and Washington's Birthday! Sports galore! Track, swimming, boxing, hockey, basketball. Tonight, Boston Garden, annual tri-cornered Harvard, Dartmouth and Cornell track meet. Tonight, arena, first appearance of the reorganized Bruin Cubs in a game against the Philadelphia Arrows. Tonight, Mechanics Building, St. Joseph's T. A. S. amateur novice boxing. Monday afternoon and evening, Boston Y. M. H. A. gymnasium, New England Y. M. H. A. basketball championships. Monday night, Mechanics Building, finals Diamond Belt amateur boxing. Monday night, Y. M. C. A. pool, annual indoor swimming meet of the Boston Swimming Association. Monday night, arena, Bruin Cubs vs. Providence. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Boston Garden, 19th annual Eastern Dog Club show. How in heck are we going to be in so many DR. W. G. KENDALL places at once?

And we almost forgot! Western! The Fifty-Third Annual Gastronomic Championships of the Boston Bicycle Club will be fought out at the Boston Art Club tonight. Eat, drink and be merry. Bismillah! Skol! Skol! Skol! May the devil fly with the roof of the house of anyone who does these Old Boys harm!

THE BOSTON RIVIERE CLUB was founded on February 11, 1914. It is 21 years young. If you don't think the Old Boys still are going strong, just get a movie of "Doc" Kendall, Josiah S. Hathaway, Thomas Lavett, Malcolm L. Bridgman and Edmund Morris, wrapping themselves around the cats tonight.

DARTMOUTH'S track team, which Harry Hillman leads against Harvard and Cornell tonight, runs strong to brothers. Harry has trouble telling the Smeal twins—Thornton W. Smeal, Jr., 33, and Walter Smeal, 23—apart. Both compete in the 300 tonight, and Walter starts in the 600 as well. Both of the Donner brothers, Roger, a senior, and Ward, a sophomore, will do a Flin McCol in the broad jump. Flin is the limber-legged gossamer who hopped across Ireland in three jumps.

George Washington was first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen. But George Wright of Boston was the first to start a double play. Pulled it with Swasey and Waterman when with the famous old Cincinnati Red Stockings.

They no longer can say "Washington, first in war, first in peace, and last in the American League." The Washington team that was made about must have been shipped to Boston and renamed the Red Sox.

YOU CAN scoff at the lowly Red Sox but you can't give the Quins pitchers the raspberry. There are a flock of clubs who would give plenty to get Milton Gaston, Danny MacFayden, Horace Lisenbee and Jack Russell. These four with Ed Durham, who came strong late last season, whose arm now carries strong late last season, who has a return to 1929 form, and Wiley Moore who has regained control of his sinker and who certainly give Shano Collins something to build a team around. The Red Sox are bound to be better this year. As the Big Sox say they couldn't be worse.

THE BOW WOW show which is on at the Garden next week reminds us of the time the irrepressible Kid Broad visited a show of the old Westminster Kennel Club. The famous Kid strolled in and started to roughly paw and fondle two of the late Dick Croker's prize English bulldogs.

"Stop that," commanded an attendant. "Do you want to be bitten?"

"Then dogs bite me," asserted the Kid, "and I bite 'em back!"

THE TILSON-KOZELAR duels will be continued in Cincinnati, Columbus, Chicago and Detroit. That isn't a series. It is a Marathon They should let Clarence DeMar.

Can't see how Paul Bowser and Jack Curley, the wrestling impersonator, let Victor Segel of the White Sox get away from them. His right name is Segoriel. He wanted him the comedian's friend.

HOW DO they get that way? Here is H. L. M. writing in and asking us who is the best educated? Most graduates from Princeton with an A. B. and just escaped being named for the Phi Beta Kappa. Studied in Rome one year. Spoke seven languages. After Rome Berg went to Paris and studied at the Sorbonne. Returned to America and Columbia Law and emerged with an LL.B. His baseball position hasn't been neglected either. He played second, third and short for the White Sox before going behind the bat.

ONE WHO signs himself "An Englishman" writes: "Last evening at the Boston A. A. I overheard a conversation, wherein a veteran said that Tommy Burke, who won the quarter mile at the first modern Olympic games at Athens in 1896, could defeat most of our present-day runners at the distance. I have looked up Burke's Olympic record and I note he won in 34 1/2 seconds, time which schoolboys beat today."

You didn't look up enough of Burke's record, Old Pop. Tommy-green he the turf about him—did it seconds for the full quarter mile, and his record of 1:11 for 600 yards stood the test of three decades of competition. How many can beat it today?

THOSE FIRST modern Olympic games 1896 were held in a stadium on the left bank of the Ilissus, built on the ruins of the stadium of Herodotus of Athens built the second century after Christ, which in turn was raised from the ruins of the Panathenaic Stadium, built by Ptolemy in 329 B. C. for the ancient Olympic games.

TOM BURKE FROM AN artistic viewpoint the stadium in which the Olympics of 1896 were held was O. K. From a competitive angle it was awful. The track was little more than a cowpath. Fast times on it was impossible. Figures don't lie! So awful whopper himself.

A TITIAN-PAINTED, gray-checked girl wandered into the editorial rooms of the Boston Evening America a few weeks ago. There was something about her carriage and the free swing of her stride that reminded us of some champion. "Try we might we couldn't think who it was. We asked a friend who the young lady was. He answered: "That is Tommy Burke's daughter."

The great white stadium at Athens is built in a vale under the shadow of the HPS of Arethusa. The American Olympians of 1896 christened it "Dead Head Hill." Thousands viewed the Olympic contests from it free.

This Proves Many People Not Hard Up

Another Stock Issue Is Gobbled Up: Eaton "Mystery Man" By B. C. Forbes

New York, Feb. 21.—People had been apparently reluctant to buy the Eaton stock recently sold. The fact that it was sold at a profit of 100 per cent in the first few days of the sale, however, has proved that many people are not hard up for money.

Now President A. C. Eaton, of the American Electric Co., tells Mr. B. C. Forbes that the sale of the stock was a success.

Mr. Eaton said that the sale of the stock was a success. He said that the sale of the stock was a success. He said that the sale of the stock was a success.

DURANT AGAIN LOOKS LARGE IN WALL ST.

By FRANK H. MEHLMAN

Wall Street, Feb. 21.—The "mystery man" again looks large in Wall Street. A good deal of the stock market's recent strength is attributed to Mr. Durant's activity.

Mr. Durant's activity in the stock market has been a source of much speculation. He has been buying and selling large amounts of stock.

WAR MEMOIRS OF MARSHAL FOCH

FOCH'S OWN ACCOUNT OF HIS CAMPAIGNS APPROVED BY FOCH

In yesterday's installment, Marshal Foch told of his plans for the Allied armies to follow up their victory at the Marne with a powerful offensive. Today he tells how the battle of Arras was planned.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH, Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies During the Closing Phases of the World War

Translated from the French by Colonel J. Bendley Mott

ANOTHER SUBJECT discussed at this conference was the necessity for the Allies of finishing the war in 1919. In letter to M. Clemenceau, dated a short time before, I had asked him to call to the colors the class of 1920, beginning with the month of October, 1919, and I gave him the following reasons: "1919 will be the decisive year of the conflict. By the spring of that year, America will have reached the climax of her effort. If it is desired to shorten the war, we must wage it with the greatest possible intensity from that moment on; consequently, we must see that our armies are given all the resources we can muster. For, I said in conclusion, 'The stronger we are the sooner we shall be victorious and the more we will be listened to.'"

I wrote along the same line to the commanders-in-chief on July 24, 1918, asking them to draw up a statement of the resources upon which they could then count at the beginning of 1919.

I laid particular stress on the necessity of only maintaining, but not developing, our superiority in tanks.

On July 24, 1918, General Pétain met me as writer at this conference to the contemplated program of operations, adding that he was of the opinion that an attack on the Saint-Mihiel salient, taking the conjunction with operations to be the main effort, was envisaged for the end of the summer and the autumn.

As a consequence of the agreement reached and the action taken for carrying them out, we were not able to launch, starting on August 8th, a second great Franco-British offensive—the battle of Amiens.

On August 8th and its consequences were decided to be of exceptional importance.

I had entertained the idea of driving the enemy from the salient at Montellier, but in order to prevent our using the railway, I decided to attack the Germans on the ground. On the 20th, during a conference at Somme, Marshal Foch, General Rawlinson and General Pétain, together with the general plan of the attack. It was in the plan of the attack that the French First Army (General Foch) was to move in the direction of Chaulnes, the French First Army (General Foch) was to move in the direction of Chaulnes, the French First Army (General Foch) was to move in the direction of Chaulnes.

On July 24, 1918, the operation was prescribed in detail in the following terms:

"1. The object of the operation is to break the German line at Amiens and the Amiens-Paars railway as well as to break the German line of communication between the Somme and the Aisne."

"2. For this purpose, the offensive covered on the North by the French First Army, was to be as far as possible in the direction of the North."

"3. It will be executed by: (a) The British Fourth Army, composed of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, Congress and Unemployed

Wagner Bill Should Be Enacted Before Adjournment

Congressmen should not return to their constituents on March 4 without having voted for the Wagner Public Employment Office Bill.

At a time when distress resulting from unemployment results in numerous crank schemes, the national Legislature would be shamefully negligent if it failed to adopt this sensible proposal which meets with the approval of leading economists and social workers.

The Rules Committee of the House of Representatives last week voted to bring the bill—S. 5660—to a vote in the lower House at this session. The bill was passed by the Senate last June, and was favorably reported on by the House Judiciary Committee.

Inertia and the search for local favors, rather than for the national welfare, have made many lawmakers apathetic toward this measure embodying elementary social justice.

This bill is the last of a trilogy, which Senator Wagner introduced before the depression, to carry out the enlightened scientific proposals of the President's Conference on Unemployment in 1921.

It is an attempt to replace bungling and stupidity in the market places for human services with a higher degree of efficiency.

As a group of social and economic leaders pointed out in a recent letter to President Hoover, it would be a tragedy if Congress adjourned without having taken this measure to rehabilitate the Federal Employment Service.

The mechanism proposed in the bill would provide for effective co-operation of employment exchanges operated by the States with a Federal agency, which would give financial aid and supervision.

It is shameful to treat this obviously sensible measure to aid millions of unemployed as an unimportant and routine matter, which has been lost in the shuffle.

It is stupid for a Congress, which has appropriated millions to the Farm Board to support agricultural commodities, to ignore an opportunity to help millions of distressed citizens sell their own services.

The Wagner Bill is no cure all for the ills of society. But it creates a useful instrument for better meeting the nation's major problem, namely, that of getting unemployed men and women back on the job.

The great need is to stop political bickering over small matters, and to concentrate on such a proposal as the Wagner Bill, which goes to the heart of the problem of relieving unemployed workers.

The Peril of Dope

Some Narcotic Education Week Facts That Will Startle You

This is Narcotic Education Week—or in the plain English that plain people understand—Dope Week.

What does Dope Week mean to you and your children, and the children of your neighbors?

What does it mean to the world in general and to the United States of America in particular?

Not a thing in the world—perhaps that's what you think. Don't be too sure of that.

Do you realize that in the last six months the new federal bureau of narcotics has seized:

Number 1—One ton of narcotics which had started from Europe to the United States, via China.

Number 2—Three million dollars' worth of dope in New York City.

Number 3—Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of dope floating with bags in San Francisco Bay.

Number 4—At least half a million dollars' worth of opium, morphine, heroin and cocaine in six other large cities in this country.

We might as well face the truth once and for all—we Americans.

The dope ring has been making a dumping ground of the United States for the past ten years.

We have made drastic laws, limiting quite effectively the legitimate importation of narcotics for medical purposes, and when we did that we sat back and folded our hands with a smug smile of satisfaction.

But the dope came right along across the ocean from Europe and across the ocean from China and Japan and India, and across the border from Canada and from Mexico just the same.

Uncle Sam has waked up at last.

The American delegates to the opium conference in Geneva have just succeeded in calling a conference in London for May.

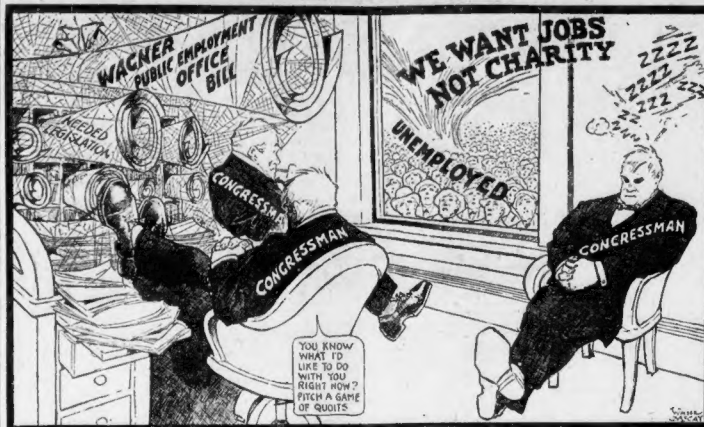

At that conference will be discussed—not only the legal limitation of dope, but the entire control of the whole manufacture of all sorts of narcotics.

That's a step that means business.

Do you want to feel that you yourself have a hand in this business of crushing out the infamous drug traffic which is the worst menace to your civilization today?

Read the dope news during Narcotic Week—every word of it. Learn the truth—about dope—for once.

ANOTHER AMERICAN TRAGEDY

While "Lame Ducks" hunt soft nests, and other Representatives bicker over trivial affairs, the Wagner Bill to aid millions of unemployed gathers cobwebs in the House. It should be dusted off and passed before March 4.

New York Day by Day

The Efficiency Expert

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—I don't expect you precisely how he got in, but his card revealed him as a field agent for a new fangled school of self analysis. Peek into your own mind and be a wow, or something like that. In times like this no one can afford to overlook a beta.

By asking questions and charging replies I learned that he was a beta. He could not only speed up efficiency, but one in support with the best people, triple your salary, but perhaps sharpen your wits. He began by asking me how I regarded my own intelligence.

I told him I had a practical one of the leading minds out of Gallopis. O. He put something down and rubbed it out. It looked like cheating. His method was very disconcerting.

"Name some prominent business men," he exclaimed. I called off Hatten, Barton, Durstine, Osborne, Black, Starr, Frost and was just about to mention Park and Tifford when he interrupted with: "Never mind. What is the number of your safety deposit box and where is the key?"

I can't even remember how old I am except it is sufficient. All I could do was shake my head. He gave me a quizzical look and wrote down something.

"At this time I got my feet clear of my desk. A guy changing his mind might start sweating any minute. Facing back and forth with his brow furrowed he snarled: "A, has ten marbles. B, has two. Divide by 3 and multiply the quotient by 17."

Now he was playing marbles. And I am only a rope skipper! Just then he asked me: "As I phone ran the receiver he cried: 'Remember you can shorten phone conversation by a simple yes or no.' It was a scanda from a collection service and did I pry him off with a skippy not."

I don't know if all complex thinkers run to type, but this one had an expertly professional eye and a pedantic pose that gave all his questions a gloss. Most of the time he was trying to figure out his c's e's e's.

I made up my mind I would wound up trying to blindfold me and make me smoke a cigarette. I was going to crow to him with my big bottle of red ink. They tried to get into endorsements scientifically these days.

A friend of mine was recently invited to a club where he did a lot of sitting and standing through in high and low registers with a ding-bat around his throat to register to. He went in response to a party message that he was wanted for a bronchial examination.

He supposed, of course, his doctor made the appointment. When he began taking photographs he discovered he was to be sneered but cheated across the country in cheap drop advertisement. He still has red in his eye and a gun on his hip.

These trivial digressions might lead one to believe the analyst just asked a few questions and was off. Not that bird. He was around practically all morning. He told me no

No Place Else To Go

I AM WRITING this for you—into the desert. You do not know when your life will ever become a desert. You do not believe that you can ever come to a place where life is a joy and small comforts will fail to please you.

When you are in a place where life is a joy and small comforts will fail to please you, you will find that life is a joy and small comforts will fail to please you. When you are in a place where life is a joy and small comforts will fail to please you, you will find that life is a joy and small comforts will fail to please you.

Think It Over

Drawn by Hal Coffman

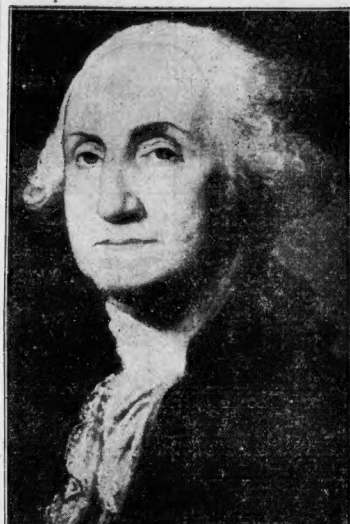

Bound, gagged and held for ransom, there is not much chance for this man, you say.

You are quite right. Nobody gets far, tied hand and foot, with a handkerchief around his mouth so that he cannot even call for help.

But that is the plight of many. Debt, booze, gambling, extravagance hold them down. You are sorry for this poor fellow, no doubt, but he deserves little sympathy. No gangster or stick-up man placed his arms and left him helpless.

He put the ropes on himself, and only he can take them off. Nobody else on earth can do it for him, "and you may lay that."

"Be Friendly With All Nations, Independent of All Nations, Avoid Foreign Entanglements"

A GILBERT STUART painting of George Washington, discovered two years ago in Massachusetts, and now owned by an American collector, name not given out.

The American Revolution produced the most amazing group of statesmen and patriots the world has known at one time.

Tomorrow and on Monday we will celebrate the birthday anniversary of the most outstanding of them all—General George Washington, Father of His Country.

As scholar, as athlete, as business executive, he was distinguished then and he would have excelled in any country at any time.

But above and beyond, he possessed two rare qualities which Providence has bestowed upon few men in all the ages. He was an extraordinary military genius and a masterful statesman.

We think of Washington with admiration as an intrepid Colonel of the Virginia militia contesting against the French and Indians successfully where generals of greater repute had failed.

We think of his valor and military daring in piloting his forces across the ice-strewn Delaware to surprise and defeat the Hessians at Trenton.

We think of him with pride as presiding over the Constitutional Convention, which gave to us the liberties and the government we revere, and we think of him as consolidating that government as the First President of the United States in the troubled, uncertain post-revolutionary era.

But our affection and our gratitude go out to him because of the deep precepts and policies he gave us in his marvelous love of his country and his highly patriotic desire to perpetuate the independent, democratic government he was such a conspicuous figure in creating.

Beware of foreign entanglements and political alliances, was his warning.

So, today, as loyal Americans, loving the land that he loved, let us heed the most important of all his injunctions and resolve to keep out of the League of Nations, the League Court and those similar alliances against which he warned us.

Fighting Unemployment

You're Invited to Committee Hearing Tuesday

Massachusetts has long had the reputation of being the most progressive commonwealth in the Nation in social welfare laws calculated to surround the working people with every element of safety and protection.

Governor Ely's sensible program for providing constructive employment through a bond issue that will not reflect in the immediate tax issue and thus vitiate its very purpose of stimulating business activity seems certain of adoption.

As a natural corollary to this effort, the Legislature can well afford to adopt the plan for establishment of the Commission on Stabilization of Employment to lay a definite, permanent barrier if possible against these business dimunitions which come to us with distressing regularity every ten years.

Surely we have had enough experience to enable us to contend successfully against these periodic business uncertainties. Men and women need to be made secure in their jobs. Modern machinery thrown onto the scrapheap. We need occupational training that will have stried them for other lines of endeavor. The long-range planning of public works as a reservoir of labor and a system of unemployment insurance that may afford relief from hardship are measures to be adopted ere the blow may fall again.
